A Full and true Account

Of the Apprehending

Sir ADAM BLAIRE, and Dr. GREY,

(The two Notorious Persons in the late Proclamation)

Upon Saturday the 6th of this Instant July, at Folkestone in the County of Kent; and their Examination and Commitment to Folkestone Goal.

Licensed, July 8. 1689. J. FRASER.

Saturday last were apprehend, upon suspicion, at Folkestone, within five miles of Dover, in Kent, Sir Adam Blaire, Dr. Grey, and another Gentleman who goes by the Name of Mr. Wood.

The manner of their apprehending was as followeth.

The King and Queens Proclamation coming into those Parts, some Farmers, to the number of Five, (true lovers of King William and Queen Mary) had Intelligence that there were some Gentlemen hid about that County, which their shy and secret by-way of travelling, increased the Suspicion: Therefore, to serve their Country, did enter into a Resolution to assist and stand by one another in the seizing of them. Three of the said Farmers meeting them in a by-Lane travelling towards Folkestone, (in order to their imbarking aboard a small Vessel, which was prepared there for that purpose) made up unto them; and examining if they were not the Persons mentioned in the said Proclamation, found they were willing to evade giving any direct Answer. And all the Account they would give of themselves was, That they were Gentlemen who came into those Parts for the Air, and took the Curiosity to view the Country, and so to return back for London, having already spent some Time at Tunbridg, and were designed for a further Progress. But the Country-men told them, That forasmuch as their Business was only Seeing, they would give them the pleasure of seeing the next Justice's House; where they should be well Entertained if they were found Honeſt Gentlemen, and Friends to the Government. But they refuſing; and a Third Perſon taken in Company with them (who goes by the Name of Mr. Wood) drew his Sword, and Sir Adam Blaire his Piſtol, and ſo ſtood upon their Defence: Which theſe Honeſt Country-men perceiving, ſoon let them know their Reſolution, That if they did not ſurrender themſelves to them, they were reſolved to kill them, or be kill'd by them; and indeed that Mr. Wood behaved himſelf with that ſtoutneſs, that he gave the Farmers the trouble of knocking him off his Horſe, upon which he and the other two ſurrendred themſelves. They were upon Hackney-Horſes, which they had hired at Tunbridg, and had the Poſt-Boy in their Company to carry the ſaid Horſes back. Dr. Grey had a Servant with him, who confeſſed his Maſters Name was Grey, tho He and Sir Adam had gone by other Names ever ſince their flight. There was two large Portmantua's, the one behind Dr. Grey's Man, and the other behind the Poſt-Boy, and a great deal of Gold found upon them, above one Hundred Guinnies; and in the bottom of Sir Adam Blaire's Holſters, were found ſeveral Letters directed to their Friends in London, and were prepared to ſend away upon their taking Shipping, for the Contents mention'd that they were ſafe gone off, which they had certainly done ſome Days before at Hyde, if they had not been prevented by a Searcher's Veſſel that put into the Place juſt as they intended to take Shipping; which put them upon this other Invention, of procuring another Veſſel at Folkeſton, and now were got within two Miles thereof, and Five of Dover.

When they came before Sir Baſil Dixſal, after Examination, he ſoon committed them to Folkeſton Goal, where they now remain; the Juſtice having ſent thoſe Country-men who ſeized them, to give the full Account to the King and Parliament; and 'tis not doubted but they may be brought time enough to Town to accompany the reſt of their Accomplices.

FINIS.

There is lately publiſhed, according to Order, An Anſwer to the late King James's Declaration, to all his pretended Subjects in the Kingdom of England; Dated at Dublin-Caſtle, May 8. 1689. Ordered by a Vote of the Right Honourable the Houſe of Commons, to be burnt by the Common-Hangman.
